

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF SELECTION ON THE COMPOSITION OF COMMITTEES OF THE HOUSE

1.0 INTRODUCTION

In line with Standing Order Nos. 151 and 152, the Committee on Selection met and considered the composition of Standing and Select Committees of the House.

The re-composition became necessary as a result of the recent ministerial reshuffle undertaken by His Excellency, the President and new members that have joined this House after the unfortunate death of some members.

There were also some challenges with the method used in the allocation of Members to Committees. Whereas some Members serve on more than three Committees (both Standing and Select), other Members served on only one Committee. The names of some Members were mistakenly omitted altogether contrary to article 103 (4) and Order 153 of the Standing Orders of the House hence the need for some fine tuning.

In furtherance of this, the Committee met and discussed the re-composition of the Committees of the House based on the ratio of 51:49 as approved by the House.

In line with the letter and spirit of Order 193 of the Standing Orders, the Majority and Minority Caucuses after due consultations presented their reviewed lists of membership for the Standing and Select Committees in accordance with the approved ratio to the Committee of Selection.

The Committee after consideration of the lists recommends to the House the composition of the rest of the Committees as follows;

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This ensures transparency and allows for easy verification of the data.

In the second section, the author outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze the data. This includes both primary and secondary data collection techniques. The primary data was gathered through direct observation and interviews with key stakeholders. Secondary data was obtained from existing reports and databases.

The analysis of the data revealed several key trends and patterns. One of the most significant findings was the correlation between certain variables, which suggests a causal relationship. This insight is crucial for understanding the underlying factors that influence the outcomes.

Based on the findings, the author proposes several recommendations for improving the current processes. These include implementing more robust data management systems, enhancing the training of staff, and establishing regular communication channels. These measures are expected to lead to more efficient operations and better overall performance.

In conclusion, the study has provided a comprehensive overview of the current state of affairs and has identified areas for improvement. The findings are intended to serve as a guide for decision-makers and to inform future research in this field.
